

Pertinent Paragraphs

Are "Stop Signs" necessary? "Pedestrian Crossing" signs are essential in Lemon Grove at the Main and Broadway and Imperial and Broadway Crossings. They will be needed more and more as traffic on Broadway and Imperial increases.

Imperial will have to be a four lane highway as well as Broadway, and plans for traffic control may as well be made now as later.

The difficult winter weather in the Eastern and Northern States last winter did decide a lot of people to move to Southern California. New settlers with capital for industrial development will come to this district. We have the location, room for expansion, water, gas and power.

Highways will have to be developed with a view to traffic control, certainly, but in such a manner that the objective for which they are built, is not forgotten.

Highways are built to enable people to drive from their work to their home, to enable their children to attend school and to enable them to drive to a shopping district where parking accommodation is available.

Highways leading into Lemon Grove must be developed with this end in view. "Stop for Pedestrians Crossing" signs will enable people to cross the streets without fear.

The residents of the Lemon Grove district are calling for a business section built for the purpose and Lemon Grove business concerns are endeavoring to provide the needs of the shoppers. Your advertisement in the Lemon Grove Review is an invitation to shop here.

Don't be misled by claims to the contrary. The Review is printed in Lemon Grove and for the benefit of Lemon Grove. We have no connection with any other papers in the district. We have our own staff, print and publish our own paper. No member of our staff is in any way connected with the out-of-town papers who try to pose at Lemon Grove publications. DENTIST LEASES QUARTERS HERE

A dentist, Donald G. Johnson, has leased office quarters above the Brownie Department Store in the same building with Dr. Brassington.

Dr. Johnson plans to begin his work in Lemon Grove about April 15.

He will be the first dentist to practice in this community, and it will be a real service to the area to have dental facilities here.

Impressive Rites Mark Presentation Of Y's Men Charter

One of the outstanding events of the year took place Saturday evening when Y's Men gathered from many cities in southern California to present a charter to the local organization.

The evening began with a dinner served to 150 people in the Forward Club, by the ladies of the Congregational Church.

The Y's Men's Club is an international organization connected with the YMCA, and consists mostly of young men who are very active and interested in youth work.

The Lemon Grove group, recently organized, were awarded their charter at impressive ceremonies Saturday evening. The local president is W. Arthur Thomas; vice president, Ralph Lee; secretary Rev. Dan Apra, and treasurer David Apra. Howard La Shell, Homer Blalock and Leo Cass comprise the board of directors.

Other members are Dr. Gilbert Chassey, Albert Denlinger, John Durham, Gerald Holmes, Walter Lindsley, Carl Johnston, Spencer McKern, William Poirer, Carl Sunbury, Wilbur Will and Ralph Nelson.

Toastmaster for the evening was Merrill Van Anda, international director of the new Y's Member of Counseling. The charter was presented by Chuck Calkins, district governor and a response was made by Art Thomas, the new president.

Walt Jackson, regional director, made the official welcoming address to the new Lemon Grove group, and George Gould, international president of the organization, gave the main address on "What a Y's Men's Club can Mean to a Community."

The Congregational Church choir rendered special selections and were warmly received by the guests. They sang, "Row Your Boat," "Night and Day," and "The Lost Chord," attired in evening gowns and directed by DeWitt Mytinger. Miss Margaret Butler sang "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," with Mrs. A. W. Thomas as her accompanist.

Banners were presented the new Y's Men's Club, and a gavel of which Art Thomas is especially proud. It's hammer was fashioned of wood sent from London near the home of George Williams, founder of the "Y" movement. The handle bears the name of Judge Paul Alexander, of Toledo, founder of Y's Dom. The handle and the hammer were joined by the San Diego Y's Men's Club and presented by them to the local group.

Several local citizens attended the affair; among them A. F. Sonka, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Haaf, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Solleder, Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Good, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Sunbury and Hans Ahrensberg.

The theme of the organization as summed up by the international president, George Gould, is "Be of service to God and the

Mrs. Lena Eckler and W. H. West Married In Surprise Ceremony

Friends here were pleasantly surprised to learn that our popular librarian, Mrs. Lena Eckler and Mr. William H. West quietly drove to Santa Ana Monday and called upon their old friend, Rev. A. B. Roberts, where they were united in marriage.

Mrs. West has been a resident of the Grove about 25 years, residing in her own home on Central Ave. most of that time. She has been librarian in Lemon Grove since June 1936.

Mr. West has lived here more than 30 years. He is president of the Lemon Grove Citrus Association and a director of the Irrigation District.

Reverend Roberts will be remembered as a former pastor of the Congregational Church in Lemon Grove, about 5 years ago.

Both the bride and the groom are prominent, highly respected, citizens of the Grove, and their friends wish them the best of happiness.

COUNTY FEDERATION DINNER HELD AT VISTA

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Haaf, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Schnell and Chris Ferguson, represented Lemon Grove at the County Federation dinner meeting at Vista Tuesday evening.

The dinner was held in Vista's new $104,000 American Legion Hall. Percy Fisher, county federation president, was in charge of the brief business meeting.

The Vista Chamber of Commerce presented Mr. A. B. Herbert as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Herbert has spent 33 years in agricultural work, and made a very interesting address on "Soil Conservation."

Then a half hour floor show was presented by the host group. This was a "super" entertainment, according to the local attendants, and consisted of accordion numbers, singing, dancing and quartet selections.

Their new Legion Hall is a large building, with a stage. The tables were arranged in "U" formation. They were beautifully decorated with flowering peach blossoms and camellias, with a main centerpiece of tulips and camellias. Each lady was presented with a corsage of camellias.

About 100 guests partook of the delicious ham dinner, and enjoyed the evening.

The next County Federation Dinner will be given in Chula Vista, the time to be announced later.

community."

Guests came from San Diego, Chula Vista, Newport Beach, Santa Ana, Burbank, Santa Monica, Riverside, Monrovia, Temple City, Covina, Long Beach, San Pedro, Alhambra, Huntington Park, and Inglewood. Dr. and Mrs. Carl Ezerick flew their plane down from Burbank, landing at the La Pressa airport.

Community Center Building Plans in About 2 Weeks

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce has been informed that the plans for the new Community Center for Lemon Grove will probably be completed in about two weeks. The work has been delayed owing to the need for remodeling the present court house building in San Diego, to conform with the fire regulations there. This is taking all of the engineers time at present.

C of C to Seek Improvement Of Roads Here

The Board of Directors of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce at their last regular monthly meeting considered the advisability of spending considerable effort toward improvement of the roads of this community, many of which are not in good condition.

Under the chairmanship of Jackson Ammons, the road committee of the Chamber of Commerce has developed a program, which it is hoped will have the endorsement of the people of this community.

It is of vital concern that our roads and streets be maintained in reasonably good condition, and to that end we ask the co-operation of all, that dangerous corners or places be reported, and steps taken to correct the reported condition.

"Welcome to Lemon Grove" Signs Now Ready

Three new signs of "Welcome to Lemon Grove" are now ready and will be placed at three points on the roads leading into Lemon Grove soon.

These signs are attractive and will be visible at night. They are part of a program sponsored by the Lions Club of this community, to promote a closer relationship between the residents and business men of this area.

It is felt many residents will find much greater convenience in shopping here with no parking difficulties, and in many cases a surprising saving owing to the lower overhead of the many merchants established here.

Lemon Grove is Leading County In Building Permits

The monthly analysis of Building Permits issued in January, 1949, in the unincorporated area of San Diego County, shows Lemon Grove leading in the number and valuation of building permits.

In the number of one family dwellings, and valuation of same, Lemon Grove comes first, with Vista second and Helix third.

Lemon Grove is also first in the number of alterations, additions and electrical permits issued, with Vista again second and Helix third.

LET'S DISCUSS IT

by Mrs. Agnes Whitlock

Have you met Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eckhart? They and their daughter Roberta, 6, live at 3195 Vista Avenue.

Mrs. Eckhart (Zada) is a club-woman, housewife and an artist, as she sometimes helps her husband in his Art School. Mr. Eckhart, as you probably know by now, is an artist, and has just recently opened his own art school, called the San Diego Academy of Art.

Formerly from Kingsport, Tennessee, they have lived in Lemon Grove for two years. "Kingsport is an industrial town with about 35,000 population. There are many large factories there, such as the Tennessee Eastman Corporation, Blue Ridge Glass Company, the Mead Corporation, a paper concern where Mrs. Eckhart was employed as a statistician; The Kingsport Press, largest press in the world, where Mr. Eckhart was employed as a book designer.

"Kingsport is surrounded by mountains. The climate is mild in the winter and cool in the summer. As you enter the town from any side, you start going in circles. Why? Well, the streets are laid out in circles, and one circle runs into another. On almost every corner is a church. Kingsport is noted for its churches, as well as its fried chicken, ham and yams.

"Kingsport is very proud of its football stars. It is the home of Bobby Dodd and the Cifer brothers, 'All Americans.'"

Tennessee is a very beautiful and interesting place to take a vacation. It is full of Indian history. There are many old Indian mounds and town sites still intact for those of us who like

CHILD GUIDANCE CLASS CHANGES TIME

Mrs. Crow's class "Family Living and Child Guidance" is now held every Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in the Congregational Church and will be continued until the end of the school year. The classes are extremely vital, with a lot of lively discussion and everyone can ask questions. Child care is provided and anyone interested is invited to attend.

to poke around in old ruins. This section of the country was the home of the famous Cherokee and Shawnee Tribes. The Indians in the early days called the middle section of Tennessee, "The Happy Hunting Grounds," it was so blessed with an abundance of game.

Few states in this country have as many streams so full of fish, as Tennessee. The soil of the Great Smoky Mountains is mostly rich loams and clays.

The Cumberland River runs through the famous Cumberland section of Tennessee. It is a quaint river and most of its beautiful scenic reaches have legendary stories. When it leaves the highlands it forms the picturesque Cumberland Falls, with a 66 foot drop. A few miles below the Falls it runs through a wild gorge with side walls about 300 feet high.

Above Carthage it reaches that interesting mountain section known as the "Home of the Moonshiners." When you enter this section it is like stepping back into the thought, language and customs of the Eighteenth Century. Also you're taking the chance of being shot for a "revenuer."

Oh, yes, Tennessee is very interesting, but so is Lemon Grove and the people in Lemon Grove.

Do you know that we have some very talented persons living here? If there are any of you would-be artists here, Mr. Eckhart would like you to know that his school is something new for San Diego County, as it actually prepares the student for professional work before entering the field of Art. All of this is without having to serve any period of apprenticeship, as students graduating from some of the other art schools do.

(My friends won't believe this, but I went to a Commercial Art school once, for three whole months. I didn't learn much, but I sure enjoyed myself watching others learn.)

Mr. and Mrs. Eckhart like Lemon Grove well enough to have bought a home here. They are interested in the civic affairs and are always willing to help in any way they can to better "Our Town."

Best Seller Comes To Local Screen

"The Saxon Charm," Frederic Wakeman's sensational novel about a mythical Broadway theatrical magnate who literally "drives people out of their minds, has been converted into a motion picture. The film, produced by Universal-International and co-starring Robert Montgomery, Susan Hayward, John Payne and Audrey Totter, comes Sunday to the Grove Theatre. Harry Von Zell and Heather Angel are other notables in a distinguished cast.

Montgomery has the role of Matt Saxon, one of Wakeman's most colorful fiction characters. Miss Hayward appears as the wife of Eric Busch, the bewildered author-playwright of the story. Payne has the latter role while Miss Totter is seen as Saxon's girl friend.

"The Saxon Charm" was directed and scenarized by Claude Binyon. Joseph Sistrom was the producer.

THIS AND THAT

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

A much debated subject that affects our understanding of the science of nutrition and the chemistry of life is that of the organic versus the inorganic.

The original meaning of the terms seems clear enough. Those substances that were found in living organisms, or were created by living organisms, were called organic, and substances like the air, the water, or the solid crust of the earth, that were obviously not a part of living matter or created by it, were termed inorganic.

This distinction enabled the naturalist in a pre-scientific age to group the things that he found in nature into two great divisions. As applied to the food of man or other animals, it also offered a pretty good line of demarcation between what was food and what was not.

The plant very obviously sent its roots down into the soil and by some miracle appeared to transform inorganic or mineral elements into organic substances which men or animals could eat.
Yet if the animal should try to derive his substance wholly from the sources tapped by the plant, starvation immediately would ensue.

It was later learned that the bulk of the plant substance does not come from the soil, but is formed by the combination of water with the carbon dioxide of the air, which transformation was wrought by the energy of the sunlight.

As the science of chemistry developed it was found that many of the elements and substances of the inorganic world also exist as active parts or component elements of living or organic substances. Not only water, but common salt and mineral matter of bones and shells were identified as common inorganic chemicals that existed abundantly in the earth's crust as well as in living creatures.

But there were still great and complicated varieties of substances found in plants and animals that were not found in non-living matter, and which at that stage of science could not be made in the chemical laboratory.
Therefore, the idea continued to prevail that life added something that did not exist in inanimate nature and could not be duplicated in the laboratory.

From this simple beginning scientists have succeeded in making not one or a dozen, but literally thousands of chemical combinations that are exactly like those created by living things. Yet they have not succeeded as a practical thing in making human food, and perhaps never will.

Most of this argument about the fundamental distinction between organic and inorganic substances is a matter of history.
Life still holds its secrets, but the popular belief that they are beyond the possibility of man's finding out has been proved to be without adequate basis.

In spite of the breaking down of the old distinction, however,

VISIT SISTER IN OCEANSIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Higgins drove to Oceanside Sunday to visit his sister, Mrs. Mae Mullins, who moved there recently.

It is still found convenient to make a special science of the chemistry of those substances which are typical of life and which are not ordinarily found in non-living matter. Hence the continued use of the terms organic and inorganic chemistry.

Thus modern science of organic chemistry is sometimes called the chemistry of the carbon compounds. For practical purposes we may consider as organic those substances which blacken when charred in a fire and which, with sufficient heat and oxygen, will burn, forming carbon dioxide and water. This test applies to any plant or animal substance, and certainly in any substance which will produce growth and an increase of weight in a living body, or which will sustain body heat and muscular energy.

The practical question which arises from a consideration of the facts is: Can minerals from inorganic sources be utilized as food, or must we always get our supply from those held in combination or association with organic substances? There is still much division of opinion on this subject, but it has been demonstrated that there are at least some minerals which we can take from their simple organic salts.

Sodium, chlorine, potassium, magnesium, and calcium and phosphorus for bone construction, at least, are all available to life from such sources. But there are other combinations of phosphorus which are found only in living substances and which science cannot duplicate. These cannot be built up in the human body from the simple mineral forms, and a similar statement may be made for iron and iodine.

The dispute about the finer points of mineral nutrition will perhaps be carried on for many years. At present it is mainly a matter of academic interest, being of no practical importance to those who live on natural foods.

FORWARD CLUB HOST TO GIRL SCOUTS, BROWNIES

The Forward Club held their meeting Friday March 11 at 2:00 p.m. in their club house. Mrs. C.
F. Baxter, leader of Brownie Troop 96, presented a very good little skit about the origin of Brownies, in pantomime form.
For the scene, she contrived a very realistic looking "wise old owl."

The business session followed, as the Brownies wished to have their entertainment first.

Mrs. J. E. Hogan, Girl Scout director, then told of Girl Scouting and its needs. There are now 13 troops in Lemon Grove besides about 75 girls who now belong at Grossmont. There are 202 Girl Scouts and Brownies in Lemon Grove and 70 adult workers.

In the recent Cookie Drive, the local girls sold 4788 boxes. In the county 140,000 boxes were sold.
Several girls will receive Camperships next summer at Cuyamaca, where Camp Tapawingo is located.

The Red Cross is offering aid again for swimming instructions for Girl Scouts during summer vacation.

Day Camp for both Brownies and intermediate Girl Scouts will be offered again during summer vacation. Each will last 8 days, and a bus will be hired for transportation. Funds to pay for transporting the girls are being sought from Lemon Grove organizations.

Lemon Grove School Bands Rated High At County Meeting

Between fifty and sixty members of the Lemon Grove Elementary School Band and Orchestra attended the San Diego County band and orchestra Music Festival held in the schools at Coronado last Friday and Saturday.

More than two thousand children participated in 31 bands and orchestras, and more than 370 ensembles competed for the coveted ratings.

There were four events going on simultaneously, during all of the festival.

The Lemon Grove orchestra was awarded a number 2 rating, and the band received a 2- rating.

In the ensembles a trumpet quartet consisting of Adolph Robles, Dorothy Williams, Gordon Hedberg and Robert Fields competed.

On Saturday a clarinet trio competed. Members of the trio were Richard Masters, Leah Cox and Marilyn Bunch.

The ensembles did not receive their ratings before they left Coronado Saturday at 5:00 p.m.

All the bands marched in a parade Saturday afternoon. Following this the directors and the parade the directors and judges held a banquet in the La Avenida Cafe there to discuss the musical event. The Lemon Grove School and their musical director, Mr. Paul Cheatham, were congratulated for the success of their musical efforts.

Lions Enjoy Visit From Hypnotists

Dr. McKenney was program chairman at the Lions Club supper meeting Thursday night. He introduced Lion George Duryee, of Chula Vista, who had brought two hypnotists to provide the main program of the evening.

Concentrating on Constable Rigley of the Lemon Grove sheriff's office, the hypnotists finally succeeded in their objective, but not before they had unintentionally put Burt Snyder to sleep. Burt must be more receptive, or was it just a case of natural sleep. All in all, the session was a real eye-opener, both instructive and entertaining.

Mr. H. McCrary had one of the new road signs on display. This is a project sponsored by the Lemon Grove Lions Club.

Frank O'Connor reported on plans for Ladies' Night March 31, at the Forward Club House. A good program is being lined up for this event.

Camp Fire Celebrates Anniversary by Presenting Services

The Camp Fire Organization celebrated their anniversary week by taking charge of the two services in the Congregational Church Sunday morning both at 9:30 and 11:00 a.m.

The girls who took the leading parts did so at both services. Florence Porter gave the Call to Worship; Helen Whiting led in Meditation Prayer and the Worship of Giving; Donna Sheaffer led in the Responsive Reading and Nancy Stevens led in the Pastoral Prayer.

Camp Fire Girls also filled the choir seats, and sang a beautiful selection.

The pastor, Rev. Dan Apra, delivered a sermon on "They Shall Not be Delinquent."

At the 9:30 service the two girls who gave the Blue Bird Wish were Lois Lee and Janice Henderson. Several girls took part in the Camp Fire Service. Patricia Pfister acted as the Reader. Those lighting the candles were Kathleen Pfister, Mary Catherine McArthur, Linda Young, Jean and Joyce Dunford, Billie Sue Little, Mary Barrows and Jill Sonka.

At the 11:00 service Nancy Sunbury acted as reader. Lighting the candles were Judy Nelson, Mary Catherine McArthur, Carol Denstead, Patricia Pfister, Lola Nowlin, Billy Sue Little, Mary Barrows and Beverly Brust. Blue Birds giving their Wish were Joyce Bagrie and Sandra Beby.
